

25TH COMMISSION FOR EMPLOYMENT EQUITY (CEE) ANNUAL REPORT (2024/25)

Bridging the Equity Gap Through Diversity & Inclusion

Department:
Employment and Labour
REPUBLIC OF SOUTH AFRICA

The Minister of Employment and Labour (Nomakhosazana Meth) hereby releases the 25th Commission for Employment Equity (CEE) Annual report as submitted to her in terms of section 33 of the Employment Equity Act of 1998 as amended.

The Labour Laws of the country such as the Employment Equity Act were enacted following intense struggle for equality, fair wages, safer and non-racial workplaces, better working conditions, and a broad spectrum of labour rights. For decades, workers played a critical role in shaping a democratic South Africa and influencing the development of labour laws that redefined the workplace.

While great strides have been made to achieve equality and equity in the workplace by promoting equal opportunities and fair treatment through the elimination of unfair discrimination, much work still needs to be done to ensure equitable representation of designated groups (i.e. black people; women; and persons with disabilities), in all occupational levels of the workforce.

It is important to note that the Employment Equity Act was not introduced to create racial divides or quotas. The 25th Commission for Employment Equity (CEE) Annual report paints a picture of the slow pace of transformation and that as a country, we are still on a long walk towards equality.

FOREWORD

South Africa is often termed “rainbow nation” and its people are diverse in, amongst other things, race, religion and culture. The post democratic legal reform, through its laws, policies and practices, seeks to accommodate diversity amongst the people of South Africa and to redress the injustices suffered in the past by previously disadvantaged people. In this regard, the Constitutional Court of South Africa in MEC for Education, Kwazulu-Natal v Pillay 2008 1 SA 474 (CC) at paragraph 75 held that:

“Our society which values dignity, equality, and freedom must therefore require people to act positively to accommodate diversity. Those steps might be as simple as granting and regulating an exemption from a general rule or they may require that the rules or practices be changed ...”

Despite 31 years of democracy and progressive transformative legislation, there remains a need for further transformation and equality in the workplace. Diversity and inclusivity for all those persons previously disadvantaged in the workplace must now be heard, seen and felt. In this regard and as the term of the 5th Commissioner for Employment Equity (CEE) comes to an end, we only wish we have fruitfully served our people, the purposes of our Constitution and the Employment Equity Act, No. 55 of 1998 (EEA) by promoting equitable representation amongst the various groups in the workplace and:

“promoting equal opportunity and fair treatment in employment through the elimination of unfair discrimination and implementing affirmative action measures to redress the disadvantages in employment experienced by designated groups, in order to ensure their equitable representation in all occupational levels in the workforce.” – see section 2 of the EEA.

In light of the above, and at the time the foreword has been written, upcoming EEA Regulations which regulates, amongst other things, general administrative matters regarding employment equity and sector numerical employment equity targets, the CEE only wish to have served our duty meaningfully, purposefully and in accordance with section 30 of the EEA, which provides that the legal mandate of the CEE is to advise the Minister of Employment and Labour (the Minister) on the codes of good practice, regulations, policy and any other matter concerning the EEA as per sections 30, 32 and 33 of the Act. In addition, the CEE may make awards recognising achievements of employers, commission research and report to the Minister on any matter relating to the application of the EEA, including appropriate and well-researched norms and benchmarks for the setting of numerical goals in various sectors, and the CEE may perform any other prescribed function.

As per the legal mandate of the CEE, this report discusses unfair discrimination involving harassment in the workplace, which continues to remain a challenge in this space. The CEE and the Department of Employment and Labour in conjunction with relevant stakeholders engaged with employers and employees at the EE roadshows in order to raise awareness of the aforementioned challenge, educate employers and employees on the aforementioned challenge and how they can combat it. The report also illustrates whether a specific group in a sector meets the required EAP percentage or falls below the required EAP percentage for the 2024 reporting cycle. Meeting the required EAP percentage reflects progression towards equitable representation amongst the various groups in the workplace.

A special thanks to our honourable Minister of Employment and Labour, former – namely Mr Thulas Nxesi, and current – namely Ms Nomakhozazana Meth, our members of the CEE and the Department of Employment and Labour, the labour market stakeholders and the public at large for playing a vital role in striving towards transformation and equality in the workplace.

Ms N DEOKIRAM,

Chairperson: 5th Commission for Employment Equity (CEE)

MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION FOR EMPLOYMENT EQUITY

The Commission for Employment Equity (CEE) is a statutory body established in terms of section 28 of the Employment Equity Act (EEA). 1. INTRODUCTION

The Commission for Employment Equity (CEE) is a statutory body established in terms of Section 28 of Employment Equity Act, No. 55 of 1998 (EEA). The functions of the CEE according to sections 30 to 33 of the EEA is to advise the Minister on Codes of Good practice and regulations made by the Minister, policy and any other matter concerning this Act.

The CEE may also commission research relating to the application of the Act, including establishing appropriate and well-researched norms and benchmarks for the setting of numerical goals in various sectors. The CEE may call for written representation from members of the public and hold public hearings on any matter pertaining to the Act. In addition, the CEE may make awards recognizing the achievements of employers for furthering the purpose of the Act. Section 33 of the EEA requires the CEE to submit a report to the Minister on an annual basis.

This is the 25th annual report by the CEE covering the period from 1 April 2024 to 31 March 2025. The report provides highlights of key activities and deliverables for the period that was guided by the strategic objectives adopted by the CEE at the beginning of their 5-year term of office that started in December 2020.

In light of the above, this annual report provides the status of employment equity and progress made in the labour market, which is based on the EE data from 2024 EE reports submitted by designated employers in terms of section 21 of the EEA. The demographic information of the National and Provincial Economically Active Population (EAP) obtained from the 3rd Quarterly Labour Force Survey (QLFS) issued by Statistics South Africa is one of the key factors taken into consideration in measuring the progress made in the achievement of the objectives of the EEA.

In addition, this report reflects on the EE status of persons with disabilities; the outcome of the barrier analysis conducted by the designated employers in their various workplaces; and concludes with final observations.

2. KEY STRATEGIC OBJECTIVES OF THE 5TH CEE

In line with the government's priority of expediting economic growth and transforming the economy in order to meet the objectives of the South African Constitution and to provide decent work, the Commission for Employment Equity (CEE) has set out the following key objectives for their 5-year term of office:

- To provide sound and well researched advice to the Minister on the EEA and its policy tools;
- To mobilize stakeholders to enable Employment Equity compliance;
- To facilitate the empowerment of workers to enforce their rights as espoused in the EEA;
- To empower employers to drive the transformative journey; and
- To monitor, evaluate and report on employment equity.

3. HIGHLIGHTS FOR THE PERIOD

This section of the report covers the key deliverables of the CEE for the 2024/2025 reporting period.

3.1. Update on the Employment Equity (EE) Amendment Act and its implications

The Proclamation Notice on the commencement date of the Employment Equity Amendment Act, No. 4 of 2022 (EE Amendment Act, 2022) was signed by the President in November 2025 and published in the Government Gazette in December 2024. Subsequently, the EE Amendment Act, 2022 came into effect from 1 January 2025.

The key objectives and implications of the EE Amendment Act, 2022 are as follows:

- To empower the Minister to regulate sector specific EE numerical targets in order to ensure the equitable representation of suitably qualified people from the designated groups;
- To promulgate section 53 of the EEA for the issuing of the EE Compliance Certificate as a prerequisite for access to state contracts and doing business with any organ of state; and
- To reduce the regulatory burden on small business (i.e. those that employ 1 to 49 employees).

In light of the above key objectives, the term 'designated employer' refers only to an employer who employs 50 or more employees, which means that employers with fewer than 50 employees, unless they are an organ of State or are designated by a collective agreement. Furthermore, small employers are no longer regarded as designated employers in terms of the annual turnover threshold. Therefore, starting from the 2025 EE reporting period, small employers with 1 to 49 employees are no longer required to submit EE reports.

In terms of Chapter III of the EEA, a designated employer is required to implement affirmative action measures to achieve employment equity for people from designated groups in their workplaces by consulting with its employees; conducting an analysis; preparing and implementing an employment equity plan; and reporting to the Department of Employment and Labour (the Department) on an annual basis.

In addition, section 53 of the EEA has been promulgated to ensure that every employer that makes an offer to conclude an agreement with any organ of state for the furnishing of supplies or services to that organ of state or for the hiring or letting of anything must comply with Chapter II and III of the EEA. In the case of a non designated employer, it must comply with Chapter II of the Act.

In order for a non-designated employer to acquire an EE Compliance Certificate, the employer must have complied with the provisions of the National Minimum Wage Act, 2018 (NMWA) for the previous 12 months; and there must be no CCMA Unfair Discrimination Award/ Labour Court judgements against the employer for the previous 12 months.

However, for a designated employer to acquire an EE Compliance Certificate, the designated employer must have submitted the annual EE Report (i.e. EEA2 & EEA4 forms) to the Department; complied with their own annual EE Targets towards the achievement of the 5-year Sector EE Target (or provided a "Justifiable Reason"). Additionally, the designated employer must have complied with the provisions of the NMWA for the previous 12 months; and there must be no CCMA Unfair Discrimination Award/ Labour Court judgements against the employer for the previous 12 months.

The CEE has finalised the development of the two sets of the Employment Equity Regulations (i.e. the General Administrative Regulations with various EE templates; and the EE Regulations on sector EE numerical targets). These EE Regulations will be published the Government Gazettes for effective implementation in the 2025/2026 financial year.

3.2. CEE STAKEHOLDER ENGAGEMENTS

In order to facilitate the empowerment of employers and workers to drive the transformative journey and monitor compliance with the requirements of the EEA, the CEE embarked on various stakeholder engagements as outlined below:

3.2.1. The 2024 Organised Labour EE workshop

The Commission for Employment Equity (CEE) conducted a training workshop for representatives from various registered trade unions under the theme, "Bringing the Equity Gap through Diversity and Inclusion", on Wednesday, 25 September 2024. A total of 132 participants attended the workshop representing various trade unions and trade union federations.

The purpose of the workshop was to promote the achievement of equity in the workplace through the elimination of unfair discrimination; and the equitable representation of the designated groups in the labour market in terms of the Employment Equity Act (EEA). The workshop focused on the following:

- Key provisions of the Employment Equity Act, 1998, as amended;
- Implementation and enforcement of the principle of Equal pay / Remuneration for Work of Equal Value; and
- Prevention and Elimination of all types of Harassment in the workplace as per the EEA and the Code of Good Practice on the Prevention and Elimination of Harassment in the Workplace, 2022.

3.2.2. NATIONAL EMPLOYMENT EQUITY AWARENESS CAMPAIGNS

In an effort to promote inclusivity and diversity within the workplace, the CEE, in partnership with the Commission for Conciliation, Mediation and Arbitration (CCMA) and the International Labour Organisation (ILO), conducted extensive Employment Equity (EE) awareness campaigns across the country. These EE campaigns were held under the theme, "Bridging the Equity Gap through Diversity & Inclusion," as part of the 30-years celebration of democracy and 26 years since the inception of the Employment Equity Act, 1998.

The EE awareness campaigns consisted of a series of National workshops, which covered all nine provinces. These EE workshops commenced from 6 August 2024 to 20 September 2024. The primary objectives of the workshops were multifaceted and pivotal in ensuring that the message of diversity and inclusion reaches all labour market stakeholders, i.e. employers, employers' organizations, employees, trade unions, HR Managers and Practitioners, Labour Relations Practitioners, members of EE Consultative Forums, Academics, and other civil society constituencies.

- The International Labour Standards from the ILO: The ILO shared insights on International Labour Standards (ILS) that promotes the fundamental rights to equality, inclusion, and decent work. This international outlook was crucial, as it highlighted the role of these ILS in shaping fair employment practices in the country, particularly in the workplaces. The ILO's contribution was a reminder that global standards are essential in creating a level playing field for all employees.
- The CCMA insights on various Unfair Discrimination cases: The CCMA played a pivotal role in guiding attendees on the sensitive issues of unfair discrimination. Special attention was given to cases involving harassment, disability discrimination, and other forms of unfair treatment based on arbitrary grounds. Through critical analysing of real-life case studies, the CCMA helped stakeholders to interpret the EEA and understand how to address these critical unfair discrimination issues when they arise in the workplace.
- Labour Market EE Status reflected in the 2023-2024 EE Annual Report (24th CEE Annual Report): Another key feature of the workshops was the presentation of the 24th CEE Annual Report, that provided an up-to-date snapshot of the state of employment equity within the labour market. The data presented in the report offered a detailed analysis of the demographic representation across all occupational levels of the workforce. This reflection on the EE status of the labour market assisted the stakeholders to better understand where the gaps still exist in relation to achieving equitable representation of all the population groups, gender, and persons with disabilities in the workforce.
- Updates on EE Amendments and proposed Draft EE Regulations on Sector EE targets: As part of ongoing efforts to refine South Africa's employment equity landscape, the workshops also provided critical updates on the EE amendments to the Employment Equity Act. Specifically, the focus was on the proposed Draft Regulations concerning sector-specific employment equity targets. This update was particularly important for employers as they are anticipating for the commencement of the Employment Equity Amendment Act, No.4 of 2022. The discussions unpacked the envisaged implementation plan of the EE amendments, and its accompanying EE Regulations to enhance the interpretation and understanding of the EE amendments by the stakeholders.
- Preparations for the EE Reporting for the 2024 period: A forward-looking aspect of the workshops was the update on the 2024 EE reporting period. Employers were guided on how to accurately report their compliance with EE legislation, with an emphasis on transparency and accountability in the reporting process, including for employers to submit reports that meet the necessary requirements.

The campaigns ensured that stakeholders from diverse backgrounds, industries and sectors had the opportunity to participate in the discussions. Each workshop was structured to be interactive, offering space for open dialogue. Participants included employers, human resource professionals, trade union representatives, government officials and employees. This diverse group of attendees was essential in generating broad-based support for the promotion of equity and inclusion in the workplace.

The campaign's focus on bridging the equity gap through diversity and inclusion reflects the country's broader commitment to achieving workplace fairness and equal opportunity in the workplace. By continuing to raise awareness on critical unfair discrimination issues such as harassment, disability discrimination and the underrepresentation of designated groups in the workforce, the CEE and its partners are playing a key role in dismantling the barriers that prevent many individuals from achieving their full potential in the workplace.

Through comprehensive workshops, the CEE, CCMA and ILO have contributed significantly to advancing the conversation around employment equity, while also providing the tools and knowledge necessary for lasting change. As the country continues to strive towards addressing the persisting inequalities, and creation of a more inclusive future, the impact of these workshops will be a game-changer in creating workplace cultures that reflects the diverse and dynamic rainbow nation of the country.

The collaboration between the CEE, CCMA and ILO is a testament to the power of partnerships in tackling systemic issues such as discrimination and inequality. Through the continuation of education and empowerment initiatives for both employers and employees, including other stakeholders, the country is poised to further its progress towards building an inclusive, fair, equitable and equal society.

3.2.3. CEE STAKEHOLDER ENGAGEMENT ON WORKPLACE HARASSMENT, INCLUDING BULLYING

In pursuance of its mandate to promote the achievement of equality and equity in the workplace, together with the CCMA and the ILO, the CEE hosted a Stakeholder Engagement on Workplace Harassment, including Bullying, in Pretoria on 28 November 2024.

It is important to highlight that South Africa as a signatory of the ILO Convention 190 concerning the elimination of Violence and Harassment in the World of Work (C190), recognised that several pieces of legislation were required to address its implementation. The EEA is one of the key legislative and policy interventions within the ethos of South Africa's Constitution to eliminate unfair discrimination and achieve equity in the workplace by promoting equal opportunity and fair treatment in employment through employment policies, procedures and practices.

The Minister of Employment and Labour, with the advice of the CEE, published the Code of Good Practice on the Prevention and Elimination of Harassment in the Workplace (Harassment Code) in 2022, which is intended to assist with implementation guidelines and best practices on the prevention, elimination, and management of all forms of harassment that pervade the workplace.

The purpose of the Stakeholder Engagement was to reflect on the journey undertaken by South Africa thus far, and share practical experiences with key stakeholders and other SADAC countries (i.e. Namibia and Lesotho) on the implementation of the ILO C190. In addition, to identify good practices, challenges and possible solutions for the proper implementation of this Convention.

The Stakeholder Engagement was attended by various stakeholders either physically or virtually, which included, amongst others, dignitaries from the ILO; Director-Generals from the Ministries of Employment and Labour in Lesotho and Namibia; Commission for Gender Equality; Public Service Commission; Black Management Forum; and NEDLAC Social Partners (i.e. Organised Business, Organised Labour, Government and Community Constituency).

This engagement highlighted the need for further collaboration and inclusion of more participants from a broader spectrum of stakeholders. It also highlighted the need to allocate more time and resources for policy implementation and enforcement through education and advocacy campaigns, including evaluation and impact assessment.

4. UNFAIR DISCRIMINATION INVOLVING HARASSMENT IN THE WORKPLACE ACCORDING TO THE EMPLOYMENT EQUITY ACT, 1998 (EEA)

Legislative background

Section 6(3) of the Employment Equity Act 55 of 1998 (the “EEA”) provides that harassment of an employee is a form of unfair discrimination and is prohibited on any one or a combination of grounds of unfair discrimination listed in subsection (1) of that Act. The Code of Good Practice on the Prevention and Elimination of Harassment in the Workplace¹ provides guidelines to employers and employees on preventing and eliminating all forms of harassment, as a form of unfair discrimination, in the workplace, and on human resources policies, procedures, and practices related to harassment and appropriate procedures to deal with harassment and prevent its recurrence. In addition, section 60 of the EEA sets out the requirements for employers to avoid being deemed liable for one of their employees’ contraventions of the EEA.

Section 10 of the EEA provides that dispute arising from Chapter II, Prohibition of Unfair Discrimination, may be referred to the Commission for Conciliation, Mediation and Arbitration (the “CCMA”) for conciliation. Section 10(6) of the EEA provides that if a dispute remains unresolved after conciliation, a party may refer it to the Labour Court for adjudication. If the employee alleges sexual harassment, that employee also has the option to refer the dispute to the CCMA for arbitration. In any other case of unfair discrimination, employees who earn less than the threshold determined by the Minister of Employment and Labour in terms of section 6(3) of the Basic Conditions of Employment Act 75 of 1997 (the “BCEA”) have the choice of either referring an unresolved matter to the Labour Court for adjudication or to the CCMA for arbitration. In such instances, if an employee earns above the earnings threshold, parties to the dispute may consent to arbitration of the dispute.

EEA case referral statistics

Cases referred to the CCMA under the EEA constitute, on average, less than 1.5% of the total case referrals. While the case referral numbers are low, these disputes are often complicated, and the CCMA only appoints Commissioners who have undergone specialist training to hear these matters. The following statistics provide an overview of the number of EEA cases and their breakdown referred to the CCMA from 01 April 2023 to 31 March 2024 and from 01 April 2024 to 31 January 2025.

The statistics cited above show that most claims referred to the CCMA under the EEA are based on “arbitrary grounds.” The organisation currently does not record separate statistics for harassment claims other than those based on sexual harassment.

The following case law summaries provide an overview of matters the Labour Courts and the CCMA heard.

Vicarious liability claims against employers - Section 60 of the EEA2

Potgieter v National Commissioner of the South African Police Service (2009) 2 BLLR 144 (LC) (handed down on 10 October 2008)*³

The Labour Court, facing a claim against the employer of vicarious liability, held that where an employee accused of sexual harassment has been disciplined and warned, it is not for the court to determine the appropriateness of the sanction. The court set out the requirement for employer liability as follows [at par 43]:

- The sexual harassment conduct complained of was committed by another employee;
- It was sexual harassment constituting unfair discrimination;
- The sexual harassment took place at the workplace;
- The alleged sexual harassment was immediately brought to the attention of the employer;
- The employer was aware of the incident of sexual harassment;
- The employer failed to consult all relevant parties, or take the necessary steps to eliminate the conduct; and
- The employer failed to take all reasonable and practicable measures to ensure that employees did not act in contravention of the EEA.

AK v RIGHT TO CARE NPC (JS597/21) (2023) 44 ILJ 2200 (LC) (Judgment handed down on 05 June 2023)*⁴

The Applicant, Ms AK, alleged that the Respondent is vicariously liable for the sexual harassment she had been subjected to while in its employ. The quantum sought for each claim is R3.5 million in damages and R960 000.00, compensation equivalent to 24 months' salary.

A pre-trial minute requested the Labour Court to decide [par 5]-

“[5.1] Whether the respondent failed to consult the relevant parties and take the necessary steps to eliminate the alleged conduct of sexual harassment;

[5.2] Whether the respondent failed to investigate, consult the applicant and prepare a report into allegations pertaining to sexual harassment;

[5.3] Whether the respondent failed to protect the applicant and comply with section 60, subsections (1) and (2), of the EEA;

[5.4] Whether the lie detector (polygraph) test that the applicant was subjected to constitutes a report pertaining to sexual harassment investigation; and

[5.5] Whether the respondent acted reasonably and as expeditiously as possible following the initial grievance or complaint that was lodged by the applicant.”

Ms AK was employed by the respondent, a non-profit making organisation, as a junior pharmacist, since 6 January 2020. She claims that Mr DM, a co-employee, started to sexually harass her on 13 January 2020 by asking her about her favourite sex position

2 Section 60 of the Employment Equity Act 55 of 1998: “60. Liability of employers. - (1) If it is alleged that an employee, while at work, contravened a provision of this Act, or engaged in any conduct that, if engaged in by that employee's employer, would constitute a contravention of a provision of this Act, the alleged conduct must immediately be brought to the attention of the employer. (2) The employer must consult with all relevant parties and must take the necessary steps to eliminate the alleged conduct and comply with the provisions of this Act. (3) If the employer fails to take the necessary steps referred to in subsection (2), and it is proved that the employee has contravened the relevant provision, the employer must be deemed to have contravened that provision. (4) Despite subsection (3), an employer is not liable for the conduct of an employee if that employer is able to prove that it did all that was reasonably practicable to ensure that the employee would not act in contravention of this Act.”

and complimenting her on her good looks. This was followed by comments made by Mr DM about Ms AK's breasts. Ms AK reported this to Ms T, her line supervisor. Subsequent evidence from Ms T suggested that Ms AK had not provided the full details to her of the alleged harassment at the time (reference was made to Mr DM "pouncing" on her) and had indicated that she did not wish to lodge a formal grievance as she wanted to first address the matter directly with Mr DM. This occurred when Ms AK sent a text message to Mr Molele, noting her discomfort with his conduct. Mr Molele apologised.

In October 2020, Mr DM submitted several requests to Ms AK to go on dates with him. Ms AK turned down these requests and did not report these incidents to the Respondent.

On 10 December 2020, following a suggestion made by Ms AK to Mr TM, the Operations Manager, to include training on sexual harassment in the 13 Days of Activism Against Gender-based Violence programme, Mr TM allegedly informed Ms AK that "there were people who had reported sexual harassment in the past and it backfired." [par 9]. Ms AK said she considered the statement a threat. Mr TM later denied saying this.

On 06 January 2021, Ms AK lodged a formal grievance against Mr DM and an informal complaint against Mr TM. Mr DM, while not suspended, was prohibited from having contact with Ms AK and visiting the office where she worked. While waiting for the grievance hearing, the Human Resources Department advised that there were conflicting statements in her sexual harassment allegations, and requested that Ms AK, Mr DM and Mr TM consent to a polygraph test. While Ms AK and Mr DM consented, Mr TM refused and resigned immediately. The polygraph test was undertaken in March. The Respondent withheld the results of the test on the basis that it formed part of the investigation into the sexual harassment allegations. Ms AK subsequently lodged a dispute with the CCMA regarding the withholding of the report by the employer. The dispute became moot when the Employer provided the information to Ms AK.

Subsequently, in April 2021, a disciplinary hearing was held, which led to Mr DM's dismissal for misconduct related to sexual harassment. The CCMA later upheld Mr DM's dismissal following arbitration proceedings. Ms AK served as a witness at both the disciplinary and arbitration hearings.

The Labour Court found that the Respondent complied with the provisions of the EEA by ensuring that Mr DM would not contact Ms AK, providing her with the necessary updates on the investigation, consulting with stakeholders, and concluding the grievance process within a reasonable time (April 2021). In determining the latter, the court took cognisance that the process occurred within the context of the COVID-19 lockdown.

The Labour Court concluded that the Respondent did not contravene section 60 of the EEA and dismissed the application.

ZG v Massmart Wholesale (Pty) Ltd GAJB8802-23 [2004] 3 BALR 350 (CCMA)⁵

Ms ZG, the applicant, a senior employee, filed a sexual harassment complaint against a co-employee, Mr R. Ms ZG explained that her working relationship with Mr R was on a 'meet and greet' level and that they worked in different departments.

The applicant claimed that there were two separate occasions where Mr R inappropriately touched her, tapping her back just above her bra line and, on another occasion, pinching her waist. In addition, Ms. ZG reported that Mr. R visited the department more regularly, often directing unwanted personal comments toward her. Ms ZG reported these incidents on 29 April 2022, and a formal investigation commenced, concluding on 7 July 2022.

Approximately four months later, in November 2022, the Respondent held a disciplinary hearing chaired by a senior advocate. Mr R denied the allegations of sexual harassment, and the chairperson concluded that Mr R did not sexually harass the Applicant. A month later, in December 2022, Ms ZG was accused of misconduct based on allegations made against her by Mr R. The arbitrator concluded that such allegations were conjured by Mr R to 'derail' the investigation and the disciplinary hearing into his conduct.

The arbitrator concurred with Ms ZG that the employer failed to follow its own discrimination and harassment policy, including the need for consultation with all relevant parties, and that the chairperson had given too much credence to Mr R's mere denial of the accusation of sexual harassment. Compensation was awarded to Ms ZG.

investigation conducted by the Respondent of an incident of alleged sexual harassment reported to it by the Applicant, wherein the Respondent found that sexual harassment had not taken place. The incident in question is that a co-employee, Mr M, a junior to the Applicant, sent the Applicant a sexually explicit video, without text, via WhatsApp at approximately 10:30am. About an hour later, the Applicant responded to the message by stating that she did not appreciate these videos. A few minutes later, Mr M replied and said: "sorry I will never do it accidentally it was forwarded you by mistake. Accept my apology. Your name entered by mistake." (sic) [at par 7]

The Applicant was not convinced that it was an error and lodged a grievance based on sexual harassment against Mr M. An investigation concluded that Mr M had accidentally forwarded the message to the Applicant and that his actions did not amount to sexual harassment.

The CCMA arbitrator found that no sexual harassment had occurred and that the Applicant was not entitled to compensation. The Applicant sought to appeal the arbitration award relying on section 10 (8) of the EEA.

Considering the broader context of the alleged discriminatory act, the Labour Court noted the widespread use of WhatsApp to share information and videos with groups and individuals. Regarding the evidence, two weeks before the Applicant received the video from Mr M, she received a video of the same nature from another colleague. In that instance, the Applicant responded by exchanging pleasantries rather than displeasure with the colleague. The fact that the video was not accompanied by any text aimed at the Applicant was telling in the court's view. The court accepted that the video was explicit but noted the importance of considering whether the said video was intended for the Applicant only and whether there was any abuse of power on the part of Mr M. While it is trite that a single incident may constitute harassment, the court also considered that there was no evidence of repetition within this matter. The court stated that while allegations of sexual harassment should be viewed in a serious light, where the act in question was accidental, it is inappropriate to take advantage of it and treat it as serious misconduct.

The court dismissed the appeal and found that the Commissioner was correct to conclude that there was no act of sexual harassment.

Ngunyule v MEIBC and others (JR1595/19) [2023] ZALCJHB 17 (Judgment handed down on 7 February 2023)*⁷

The Applicant was dismissed on allegations of sexual harassment. The court upheld the arbitration award, wherein the Commissioner accepted that the Applicant, on multiple occasions, asked a colleague on dates, which she politely turned down, gave her looks that made her feel uncomfortable, made unwanted comments about her physical appearance, and sent her pornographic material via social media.

The Applicant disputed that he asked his colleague out on multiple occasions for a date, and his defence regarding the pornographic material was that he contended that it was sent in error. The court rejected the Applicant's evidence and concluded that his defence was weak. Within the broader context of the evidence, the Applicant's version that he accidentally directed the pornographic material to a person whom he had asked out on several occasions was held to have been too much of a chance. The application for review was dismissed.

Department of Health Western Cape v Public Health and Social Development Sectoral Bargaining Council and Others (C307/2022) (2025) 46 ILJ 137 (LC) (Judgment handed down on 02 July 2024)*⁸

The Applicant party sought to review an arbitration award in which the arbitrator found the dismissal of an employee, Mr A, to be substantively unfair and ordered reinstatement. Mr Alexander was dismissed for misconduct based on sexual harassment. The Applicant claimed that Mr A committed misconduct and brought the name of the Department of Health (the "DoH") into disrepute by sending inappropriate WhatsApp messages with sexual undertones to three students during April and May 2021. The messages were specific for each student and referred, among others, to Mr A's desire to have sex with the students.

Despite acknowledging that the Disciplinary Code and Procedure for the Public Service (PSCBC Resolution 1 of 2003) provides that the list of possible employee misconduct is not exhaustive, the arbitrator found that the DoH did not present any evidence that it adopted rules regulating WhatsApp messages between staff members and students. Furthermore, the arbitrator concluded that Mr A did not breach a known rule in the workplace, that the chats were not explicit to the extent of being repulsive to the average person, that there was no evidence of a complaint registered by a member of the public, and that his actions did not constitute behaviour that could have brought the DoH into disrepute.

On review, the Labour Court held that not all acts of misconduct must be stated in a Code to constitute an offense. It should be common sense that senior staff members such as Mr A should not be sending messages that have a sexual undertone and messages that clearly communicate his wish to have sex with the students. Furthermore, the court held that Mr A was aware of the DoH's policy that prohibited a staff member from having a relationship with a student, as he had referred to this in one of his messages to a student. The evidence provided that the messages to the students would start off neutrally and then progress into sexual messages. The court further considered that the students were much younger than Mr A, and that he was in a position of trust and power. The Labour Court concluded that "these messages amount to turpitude, depravity, and were completely reprehensible coming from a senior member of staff towards students." The arbitration award was set aside.

Dismissal based on workplace bullying

FA v University of the Witwatersrand (WITS) & others (2023) 44 ILJ 929 (CCMA) (Award issued on 6 May 2022)*⁹

Mr FA, the Employee, was dismissed for allegedly having engaged in gender-based workplace bullying of female subordinates. Mr FA worked for WITS from 1 April 2014 to 11 April 2019 as Head of the School of Geography, Archaeology & Environmental Sciences (GAES). From 2016 to 2017, Mr FA's subordinates lodged several complaints against him, prompting WITS to place Mr FA on special leave in November 2017.

WITS appointed a panel of three people to preside over the matter. Mr FA was charged with allegations relating to gender-based harassment and gender-based bullying. This panel recommended that Mr FA be removed from his position and dismissed. WITS appointed retired ex-Justices Yacoob and Mokgoro to consider Mr FA's appeal against the panel's recommendation. The outcome of the appeal confirmed the panel's recommendation. Mr FA challenged his dismissal at the CCMA, claiming it was procedurally and substantively unfair. The arbitration lasted two years.

It was alleged that Mr FA displayed a patriarchal management style with inequitable treatment between men and women. Evidence suggested that Mr FA condoned inappropriate (rude and defamatory) behavior of male colleagues, explaining it away to "just their personality" or that the person "says it like it is." The same leniency was not extended to women. Mr FA demonstrated a dislike and disrespect for so-called "strong" women and for being challenged by female staff. A show of confrontation would be met with a response that suggested they had personality problems that needed fixing. Mr FA often provided "false, inaccurate, and/or incomplete information to the complainants." For example, he called meetings without providing an agenda, which caused anxiety and meant that participants were not prepared for what was to be discussed.

The arbitrator found that Mr FA belittled, criticised, and undermined the complainants. He gave them little or no support or acknowledgment. Mr FA displayed intimidating actions towards the complainants, leaving them feeling less important and fearful. For example, he thumped his fist on the table during meetings and shouted at them. In her arbitration award, the arbitrator stated that Mr FA sometimes disrespected her during the arbitration hearing, laughed at the complainants' witnesses, and thumped his fist on the table.

The arbitrator noted that it is a misconception to believe bullying is unique to the school environment. How bullying takes place in the workplace may differ somewhat from the way it occurs in schools, but its impact on the recipients remains devastating. In this case, some of the complainants reported that Mr FA made them fearful and that they developed self-doubt and mental and physical health problems.

The arbitrator quoted from Standard Bank of SA v Makuleni [JR2261/18] ZALCJHB 309 (handed down on 22 September 2021), where Judge Boda, in turn, quoted from an article published by Prof Rycroft entitled "Workplace Bullying: Unfair Discrimination, Dignity Violation or Unfair Labour Practice?" (2009) 30 ILJ 1431 as follows:

"[W]orkplace bullying has been linked to a feeling of incompetence in handling the job, to a sense of alienation from colleagues to anxiety that there will be no promotional recognition, to job security, to feelings of inadequacy, to knock on tensions in personal relationships and to depression."

The arbitrator found that Mr FA's conduct amounted to workplace bullying, which had a profound psychological and emotional impact on the complainants and damaged the interpersonal relationships in the GAES. The dismissal was found to be procedurally and substantively fair.

Procedural fairness – ordering compensation for procedural fairness

McGregor v Public Health and Social Development Sectoral Bargaining Council and Others (CCT 270/20) (2021) 42 ILJ 1643 (CC) (Judgment handed down on 17 June 2021)*¹⁰

⁹ South African Legal Information Institute (SAFLII) FA v University of the Witwatersrand (GAJB9261-19) [2022] ZACCMA 6 (6 May 2022) (accessed 01-03-2025).

¹⁰ South African Legal Information Institute (SAFLII) McGregor v Public Health and Social Development Sectoral Bargaining Council and Others (CCT 270/20) [2021] ZACC 14; (2021) 42 ILJ 1643 (CC); [2021] 9 BLLR 861 (CC); 2021 (5) SA 425 (CC); 2021 (10) BCLR 1131 (CC) (17 June 2021)> (accessed 01-03-2025).

The Court was called upon to determine whether the dismissal of the Applicant, the Head of Anesthesiology, on account of sexual harassment was fair. In December 2016, the Applicant was dismissed following an internal disciplinary inquiry in which he was found guilty of four charges of misconduct that amounted to sexual harassment. Each incident on which the four charges were based involved a newly qualified medical practitioner completing an internship under the Applicant's supervision and was thirty years his junior.

The first charge was that the Applicant, while on duty at an outreach clinic with the medical practitioner, made unwelcome suggestions of a sexual nature when he dared her to remove her clothes and swim naked. The second charge arose from the same outreach excursion when he suggested she have an affair with him. The third charge related to an incident whereby, upon their return to George Hospital, the Applicant inappropriately pressed himself against the young medical practitioner whilst demonstrating how to carry out a procedure. The final charge was that the Applicant made unwelcome sexual advances and inappropriately touched her leg whilst they were driving together. It is significant to note that the incidents occurred whilst the Applicant was on duty, acting within his professional and senior capacity.

The arbitrator found Dr McGregor's dismissal substantively and procedurally unfair and awarded 6 months' compensation. The Labour Court confirmed the Commissioner's finding on procedural fairness but set aside the finding on substantive fairness. The Labour Appeal Court upheld the Labour Court's decision. No consideration was given to the quantum of compensation awarded by the Commissioner.

The Constitutional Court found a significant power imbalance between the Complainant, a female significantly younger than the Applicant, and the Applicant. The court stated the following [at para 47]:

"Sexual harassment occurs at the intersection of gender and power, producing a potent stench of subordination, disempowerment and inequality that so seeps through the fabric of our society that it stains its core. Eradicating the scourge of sexual harassment will be a Sisyphean task if its perpetrators are compensated lavishly for their misconduct."

The Constitutional Court held that it is against equity and justice to be awarded almost R1 million in compensation for only a procedural anomaly in a case where a person was found to have committed sexual harassment that warranted dismissal. The Constitutional Court faced the question of what constitutes an appropriate remedy for unfair dismissal and provided that "compensation is the stuff of legal discretion" in terms of which "the main criterion is that [it] must be just and equitable" in the circumstances."¹²

The court¹³ drew on the Labour Appeal Court in Kemp t/a Centralmed v Rawlins [2009] ZALAC 8; (2009) 30 ILJ 2677 (LAC) in providing guidance on the following non-exhaustive list of factors to consider when determining whether a court should order an employer to pay compensation-

- "(b) whether the unfairness of the dismissal is on substantive or procedural grounds or both substantive and procedural grounds; obviously it counts more in favour of awarding compensation as against not awarding compensation at all that the dismissal is both substantively and procedurally unfair than is the case if it is only substantively unfair, or, even lesser, if it is only procedurally unfair;
- (c) insofar as the dismissal is procedurally unfair, the nature and extent of the deviation from the procedural requirements; the less the employer's deviation from what was procedurally required, the greater the chances are that the court or arbitrator may justifiably refuse to award compensation; obviously the more serious the employer's deviation from what was procedurally required, the stronger the case is for the awarding of compensation;
- (d) insofar as the reason for dismissal is misconduct, whether or not the employee was guilty or innocent of the misconduct; if he was guilty, whether such misconduct was in the circumstances of the case not sufficient to constitute a fair reason for the dismissal."¹⁴

Considering the facts of this case, the court initially considered removing the granting of compensation in its entirety but concluded that the right to fair labour practices and procedurally fair dismissals needed to be upheld. The compensation award was reduced from an amount equivalent to six months' salary to two months' salary.

5. DIRECTOR GENERAL NOTIFICATIONS FOR FAILURE TO SUBMIT EE REPORTS

5.1. BACKGROUND

Designated employers, which includes employers with 50 or more employees and those with 1-49 employees in terms of their turnover as per Schedule 4 of the Employment Equity Act, 1998 (EEA), submitted their EE Reports (EEA2 and EEA4 forms) to the Department of Employment and Labour for the 2024 reporting period. The 2024 EE reporting period opened on 1 September 2024 for both manual and online submissions. The closing date for manual submissions was 1 October 2024 and the closing date for online submissions was 15 January 2025 midnight.

It is important to note that in terms of the Employment Equity Amendment Act of 2022 that commenced on 1 January 2025, employers with fewer than 50 employees are not designated in terms of their turnover threshold anymore. However, employers who are an organ of State or designated in terms of a collective agreement, remain designated irrespective whether they employ fewer than 50 employees.

5.2. DG NOTIFICATION

In terms of section 21 (4A) of the EE Amendment Act (EEA), 2013, employers are required to notify the Director-General in writing if they are unable to submit their EE Reports by providing reasons as outlined in the EEA14 form contained in the Employment Equity Regulations, 2014 (EE Regulations), which include:

- Section 197 (Transfer of business);
- Mergers/Acquisitions;
- Labour Court Order;
- Liquidations/Judicial Winding;
- Insolvency; and
- Other

Reasons provided by employers as 'Other' as reason listed above included:

- Employers who are no longer designated due to size and annual turnover thresholds stipulated in Schedule 4 of the EEA;
- Employers who are no longer designated due to restructuring and retrenchments; and
- Employers who are going through the Business Rescue.

5.3. DG NOTIFICATIONS BY EMPLOYER SIZE FOR 2024

In 2024, 775 DG Notification applications were received, of which 729 applications were granted and 46 were rejected for not meeting the requirements of section 21 (4A) of the EE Amendment Act, 2013. Table A below provides the breakdown of the number of the DG Notifications that were granted in terms of employers' size:

TABLE A : DG NOTIFICATIONS GRANTED BY EMPLOYER' SIZE FOR 2024
EMPLOYER'S SIZE (EMPLOYEES)	DG NOTIFICATIONS GRANTED	%
0-49	499	68.4%
50-149	180	24.8%
150+	50	6.8%
TOTAL	729	100%

Table A shows that 729 DG Notification applications were approved and majority of the applications were from employers with fewer than 50 employees (68.4%).

5.4. DG NOTIFICATIONS GRANTED BY KEY REASON FOR 2024

TABLE B: BREAKDOWN OF THE 2024 DG NOTIFICATIONS GRANTED BY REASON
KEY REASON	NO.	%
Transfer of business (Section 197)	87	12%
Mergers/acquisitions	123	16.8%
Labour Court Order	12	1.7%
Liquidation & business closures	108	14.8%
Insolvency	0	0%
Other	399	54.7%
TOTAL	729	100%

Table B shows that 54.7% of the DG Notification applications (EEA14) were received from employers who are no longer designated (Other).

It should be noted that employers with fewer than 50 employees are not designated anymore, unless they are an organ of State or designated in terms of a collective agreement. Therefore, they are not required to submit an EE Report to the Department of Employment and Labour from the 2025 Reporting Period moving forward. As a result, employers with fewer than 50 employees will not have to deregister as they would automatically be allocated a non-designated status.

In addition, section 14 has been repealed and resulting in employers not being allowed to voluntarily comply as a designated employer.

6. DEMOGRAPHICS OF THE NATIONAL AND REGIONAL/ PROVINCIAL ECONOMICALLY ACTIVE POPULATION (EAP)

This section of the report covers the national and regional/ provincial demographics of the EAP, which is contained in the Quarterly Labour Force Survey (QLFS, Quarter 3, 2024), conducted and published by Stats SA. The EAP includes persons between the ages of 15 to 64 years, who are either employed or unemployed, but seeking employment.

The EAP is used as a benchmark to assist employers in the analysis of their workforce to determine the degree of under or over-representation of the designated groups and non-designated groups in the workforce. It also guides employers in the setting of numerical goals and targets for the achievement of an equitable and representative workforce. (Please note that when reading this report, the percentages are rounded and any reference to an increase or decrease in percentage refers to the percentage point difference)

Table 2 provides the demographic profile of the EAP in terms of race and gender groups at the Provincial level.

Section 42 of the Employment Equity Act requires designated employers to take into account both the National and Provincial EAP when conducting an analysis of their workforce (section 19) and when developing their EE Plans (section 20).

7. ANALYSIS OF EMPLOYMENT EQUITY REPORTS RECEIVED IN 2024

This section provides an analysis of the extent of reporting for all designated employers for 2024 by province, sector and business type.

7.1. EXTENT OF REPORTING FROM 2022 TO 2024

The table below covers the number of reports received from all designated employers from 2022 to 2024. It also provides the number of employees covered for the 2022, 2023 and 2024 reporting periods.

Table 3: reports received from all designated employers and employees covered from 2022 to 2024
Year	Reports received	Annual % Change	Employees covered	Annual % Change
2022	27 532	Base	7 215 960	Base
2023	28 015	1.7%	7 382 213	2.3%
2024	29 269	4.5%	7 699 665	4.3%

Table 3 shows that 29 269 reports were submitted covering 7 699 665 employees, which reflects an increase of 4.5% reports received and an increase of 4.3% employees covered for 2024 report period.

7.2. EXTENT OF REPORTING BY PROVINCE IN 2023 AND 2024

Table 4: Total number of reports and the number of employees covered by Province
Province	Year	Reports Received	% Reports Received	Employees	% Employees
Eastern Cape	2023	1 512	5.4%	407 795	5.5%
	2024	1 546	5.3%	365 985	4.6%

	2024	29 269	100.0%	7 699 665	100.0%

Table 4 indicates that Gauteng, Western Cape and Kwa-Zulu Natal are the three provinces with the highest number of reports and employees covered. These three provinces are also known as the key metropolitan areas of South Africa.

7.3. EXTENT OF REPORTING IN 2024 BY BUSINESS TYPE

BUSINESS TYPE	REPORTS RECEIVED	% REPORTS RECEIVED	EMPLOYEES	% EMPLOYEES
National Government	53	0.2%	345 099	4.5%
Provincial Government	133	0.5%	641 385	8.3%
Local Government	192	0.7%	187 288	2.4%
Private Sector	27 822	95.1%	5 449 791	70.8%
Non-Profit Organizations	584	1.9%	633 483	8.2%
State-Owned Enterprises	139	0.5%	92 953	1.2%
Educational Institutions	346	1.2%	349 666	4.5%
TOTAL	29 269	100.0%	7 699 665	100.0%

Table 5 shows that the Private Sector (70.8%) is the largest employer and the second largest employer is Provincial Government (8.3%) in South Africa. Therefore, the Private Sector can make a valuable contribution towards the overall transformation of the labour market in the country.

7.4. EXTENT OF REPORTING IN 2024 BY SECTOR

SECTOR	REPORTS RECEIVED	% REPORTS RECEIVED	EMPLOYEES	% EMPLOYEES
Accommodation and Food Service Activities	1 299	4.4%	215 580	2.8%

TOTAL	29 269	100.0%	7 699 665	100.0%

Table 6 indicates that the highest number of reports was received from Manufacturing Sector, followed by the Wholesale and Retail Trade, Repair of Motor Vehicles and Motorcycles and the Agriculture, forestry and Fishing sectors. It also shows that the Wholesale and Retail Trade, Repair of Motor Vehicles and Motorcycles (12.9%) is the biggest employer, followed by Administrative and Support Activities (12.0%); and Manufacturing (11.4%).

8. WORKFORCE PROFILE ANALYSIS OF REPORTS RECEIVED FOR THE 2024 REPORTING CYCLE

The analysis presented in the CEE Annual Report is based on methodology integrating the latest statistics as received from designated employers who have reported for the 2024 reporting season. The findings, interpretations and conclusions expressed in this work is thus based on the reports submitted and are in no way based on any other data sourced elsewhere. The EAP used in the CEE Annual Report is as published by Stats SA in the 3rd Quarter Labour Survey of 2024.

8.1. Workforce Profile, Workforce Movement and Skills Development at the Top Management Level by population group, gender and disability

Table 1: National EAP by Population and Gender Group* (*Source: Statistics South Africa, QLFS, Quarter 3, 2024)

WM	White Male	4.1%	WF	White Female	3.4%	7.5%

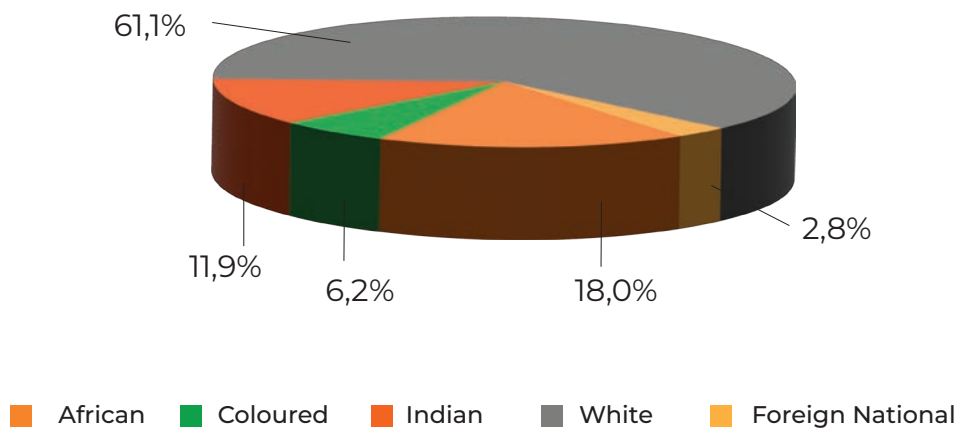

Figure 1 illustrates that the White population representation at 61.1% is approximately 8 times their EAP and the Indian population representation at 11.9% is more than 4 times their EAP at the Top Management level. In contrast, the African population representation at 18.0% is approximately 4 times below their EAP and the Coloured population representation at 6.2% is below their EAP at this occupational level. Foreign National representation stands at 2.8% at this occupational level.

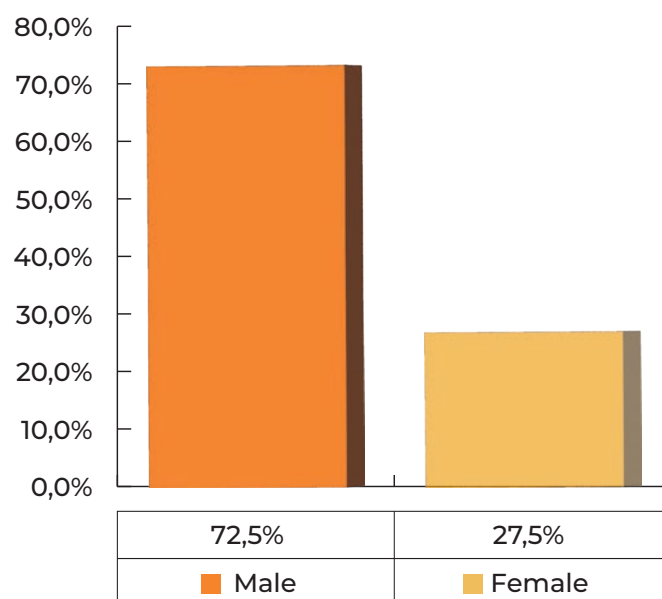

Figure 2 shows that the male representation remains dominant at the Top Management level, which is more than two-and-a half times the female representation. It also shows that males are over represented in terms of their EAP (53.9%) and females are under-represented in terms of their EAP (46.1%) at this occupational level.

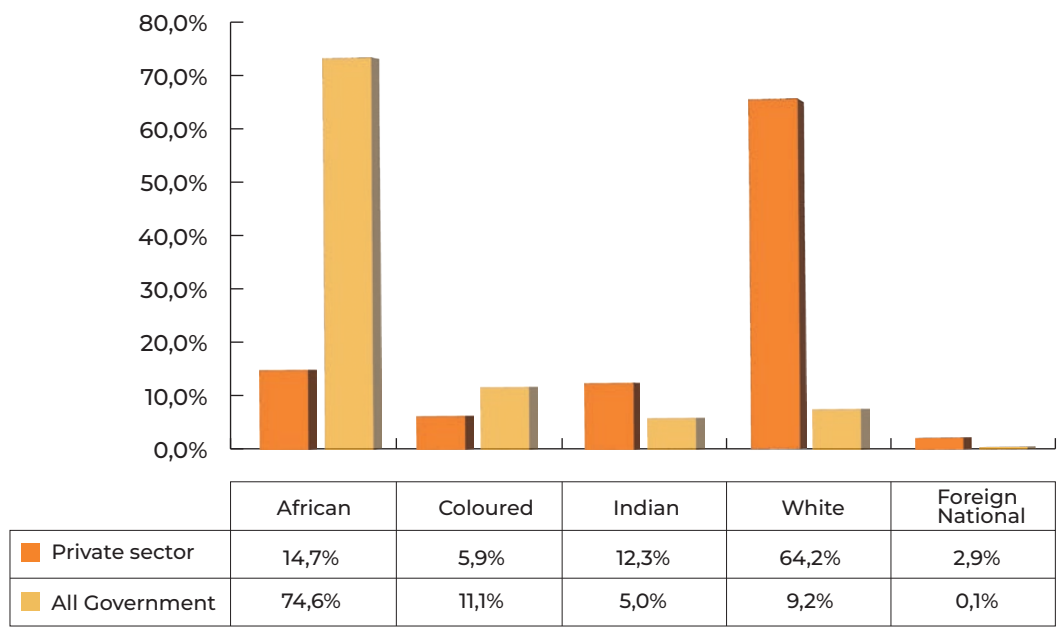

Figure 4 shows that only Africans and Coloureds are below their EAP in the Private sector at this occupational level. The representation of the African population group (74.6%) is slightly below their EAP in Government, while in the Private Sector the African representation continue to lag behind (14.7%) at this occupational level in terms of the EAP. The Private sector continues to be the biggest employer of Foreign Nationals (2.9%) at this level.

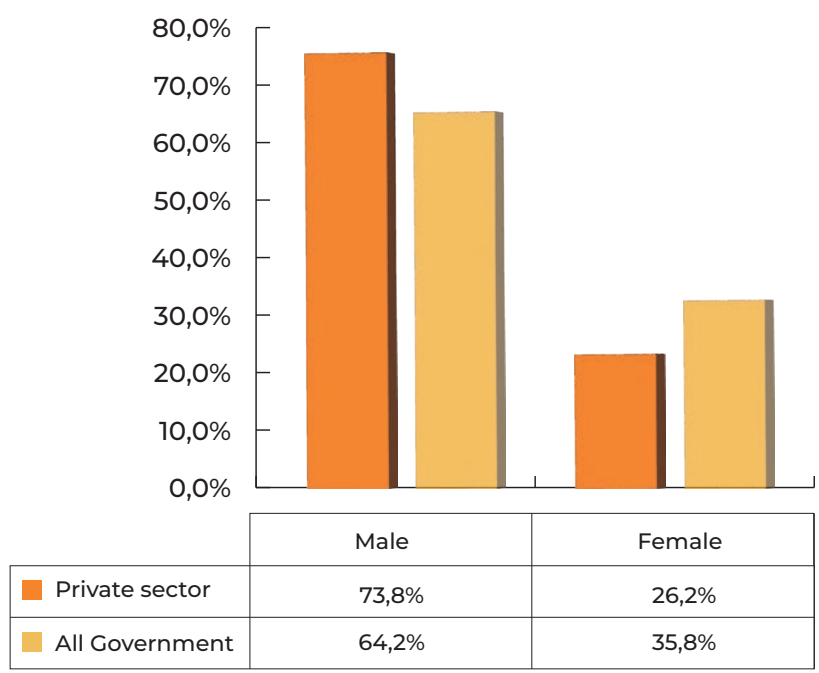

Figure 5 shows that the representation of females is better in Government when compared to the Private sector at the Top Management level. The representation of females still remains well below their EAP (46.1%) for both Government and the Private sector at this occupational level.

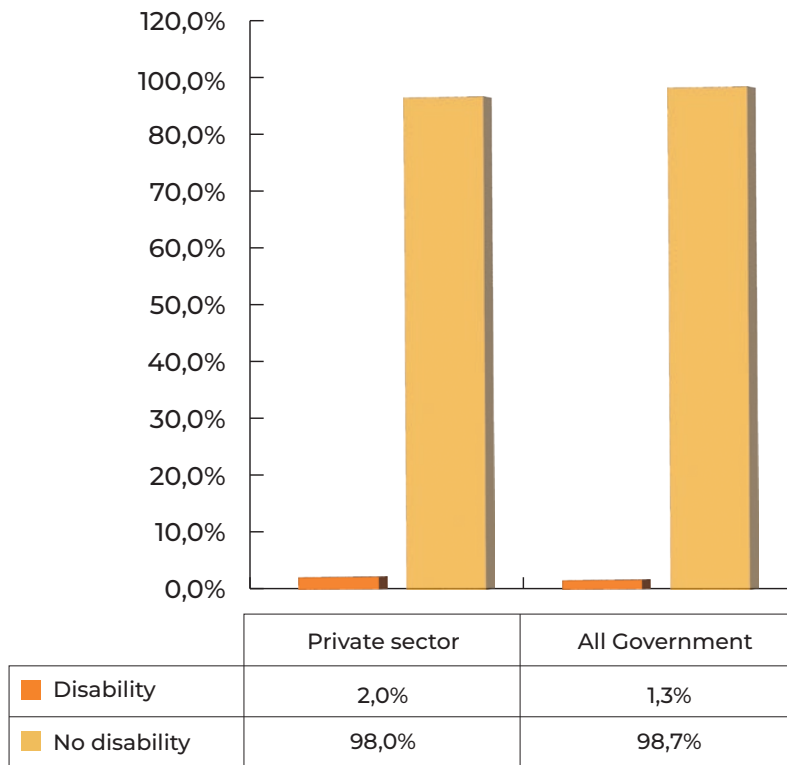

Figure 6 indicates that the Private Sector is doing much better with the representation of employees with disabilities than Government at the Top Management level.

Table 7 shows that the White population group is over-represented across all sectors at the Top Management level. It also indicates that the Indian population group is only under-represented in the Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing Sector in relation to their EAP at this occupational level. Public Administration and Defence; Compulsory Social Security performed reasonably well in terms of affirming the Black people at this level. Foreign Nationals are highly represented mostly in the Electricity, Gas, Steam and air conditioning supply; Manufacturing; Financial and Insurance Activities sectors, followed by Mining and Quarrying at this level.

Table 8 shows that at the Top Management level, White and Indian males are highly represented across all Business types in terms of their EAP. In addition, White and Indian representation is dominant in the Private Sector and African and Coloured representation is closely aligned to their EAP in National Government, Provincial Government and Local Government at this level. Apart from all spheres of Government, White female representation is well above their EAP across all other Business types. Foreign National representation is relatively high in Non-Profit Organisations, the Private Sector and Educational Institutions at the Top Management level.

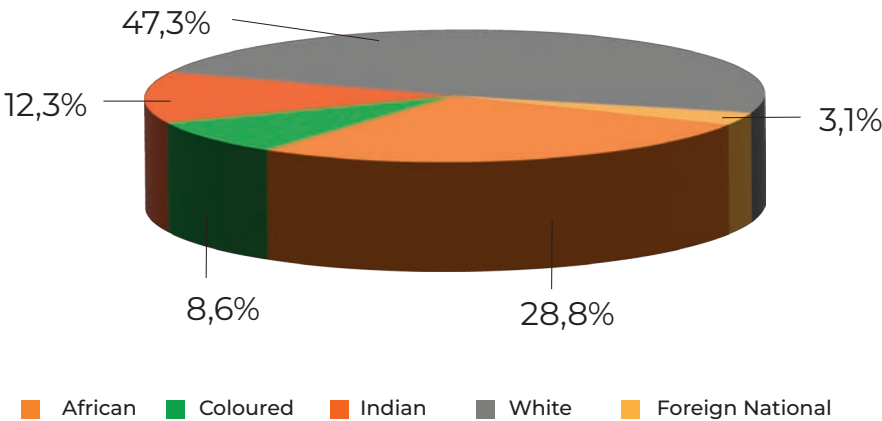

Figure 7 shows that the White population group with an EAP of 7.5% accounted for 47.3% of the representation and the Indian population group with an EAP of 2.7% accounted for 12.3% of the representation at the Senior Management level. The African population group with an EAP of 81.0% accounted for only 28.8% representation and the Coloured population group with an EAP of 8.8% accounted for 8.6% representation at this level. Foreign Nationals accounted for 3.1% of the workforce at this occupational level. Senior Management shows a disproportionate representation of the various population groups in relation to their EAP at this level.

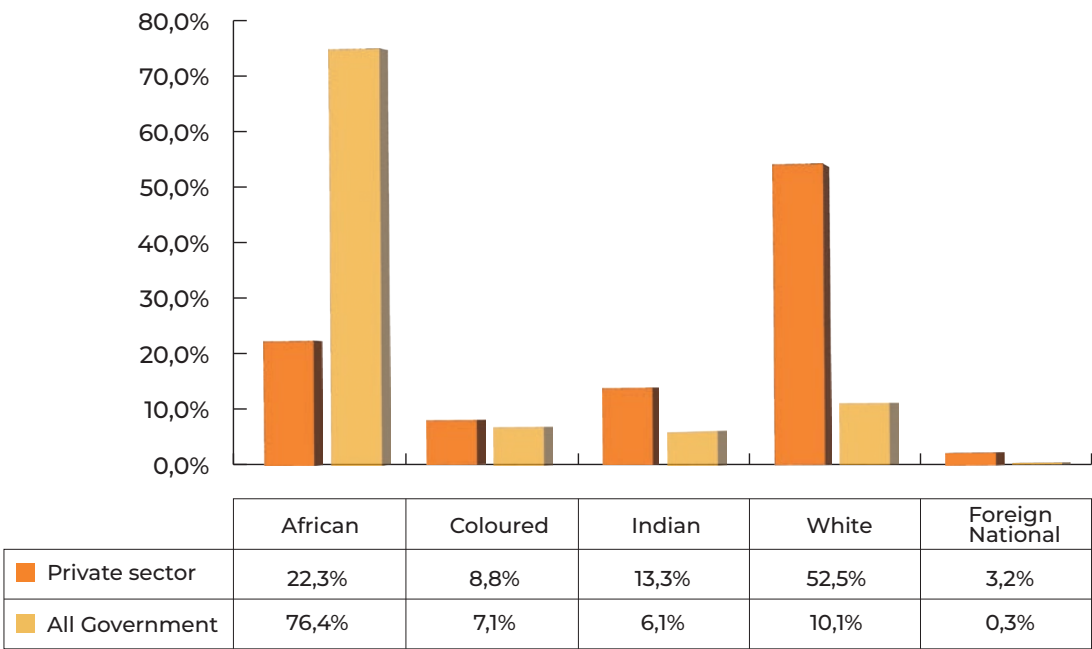

Figure 10 indicates that Government's progress in terms of affirming the designated groups is much better when compared to the Private Sector at the Senior Management level. Africans (22.3%) are the only population group that is below the EAP (81.0%) in the Private Sector. Africans and Coloureds are the only two population groups that are below their EAP in Government. The Private sector employs more Foreign Nationals (3.2%) than Government (0.3%) at this occupational level.

Figure 11 shows that the progress in the representation of females still remains low, particularly in the Private Sector (37.0%) at this level. However, the representation of females in Government is much better than the Private Sector.

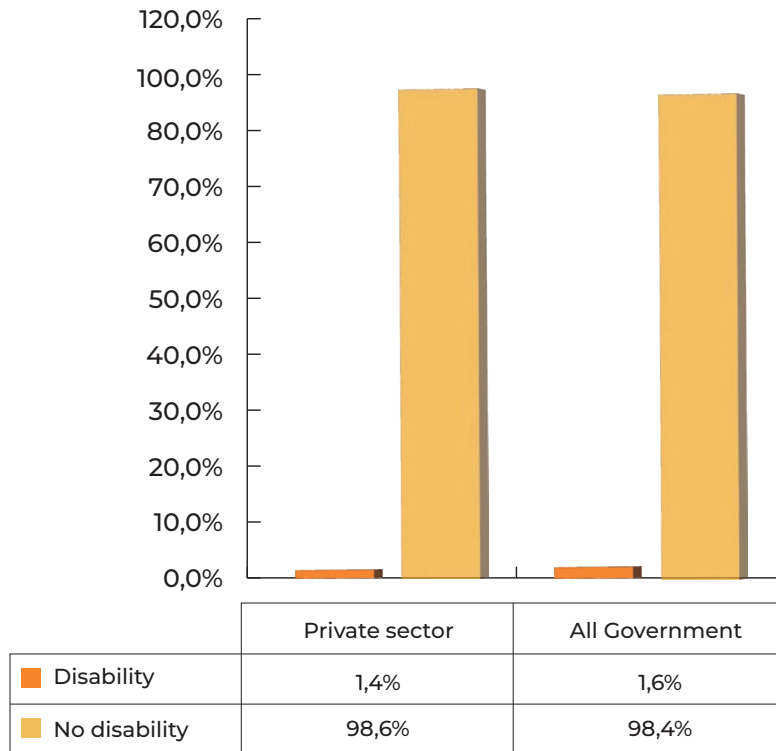

Figure 12 indicates that the representation of employees with disabilities in Government (1.6%) is slightly better than in the Private Sector (1.4%) at the Senior Management level.

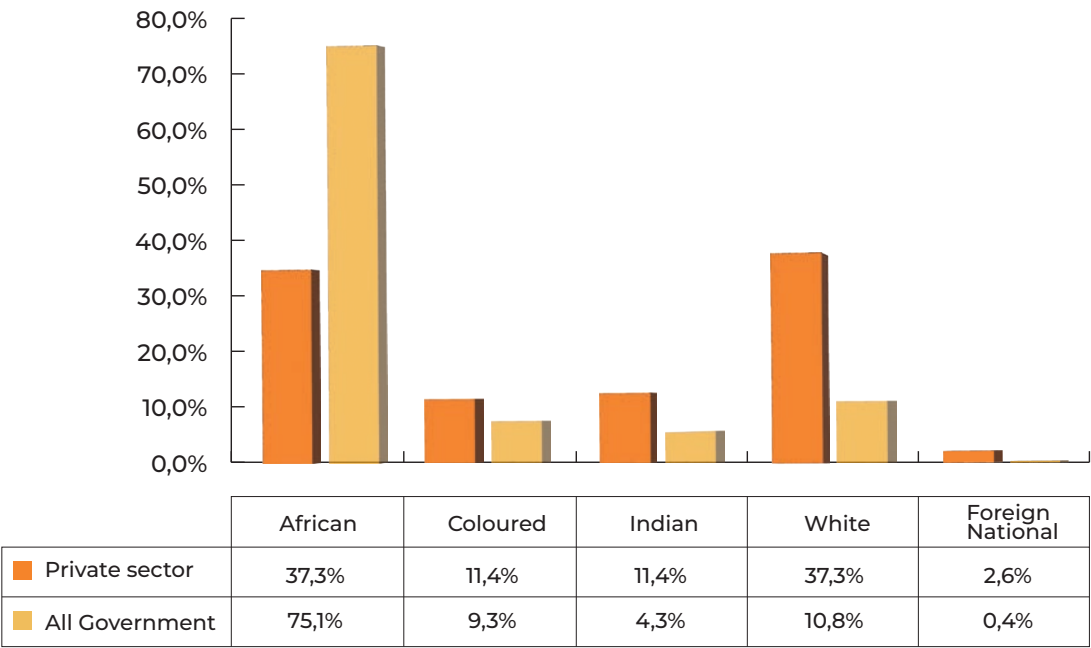

Figure 16 indicates that the African population group is closer to their EAP in Government and grossly underrepresented in the Private Sector at the Professionally Qualified level. It also shows that the representation of the White and Indian population groups is much higher than their EAP in both Government and the Private Sector.

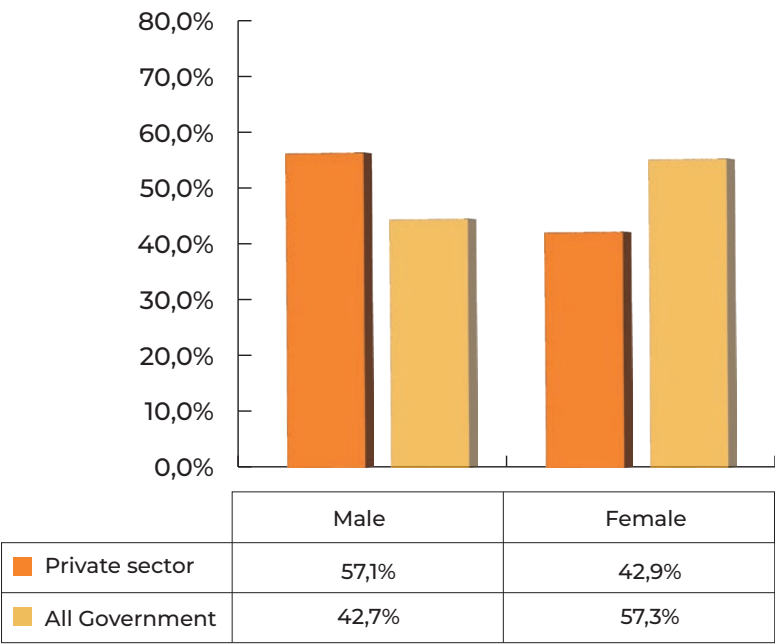

Figure 17 indicates that the male representation exceeds their EAP in the Private Sector and the female representation exceeds their EAP in Government at the Professionally Qualified level.

Table 13 shows that the White and Indian population representation exceeds their EAP in all sectors of the economy at the Professionally Qualified level. Africans appear to be relatively well represented in the Arts, Entertainment and Recreation sector, the Water Supply, Sewerage, Waste Management and Remediation Activities sector and the Public Administration and Defence and Compulsory Social Security sector at this level. Coloureds are only under-represented in terms of their EAP in Arts, Entertainment and Recreation sector; Education sector; Electricity, gas, steam and air conditioning supply sector; Mining and Quarrying sector and Water Supply, Sewerage, Waste Management and Remediation Activities sector.

Foreign Nationals have a significant representation in the Information and Communication sector; the Accommodation and Food Service Activities sector and the Education sector at this level.

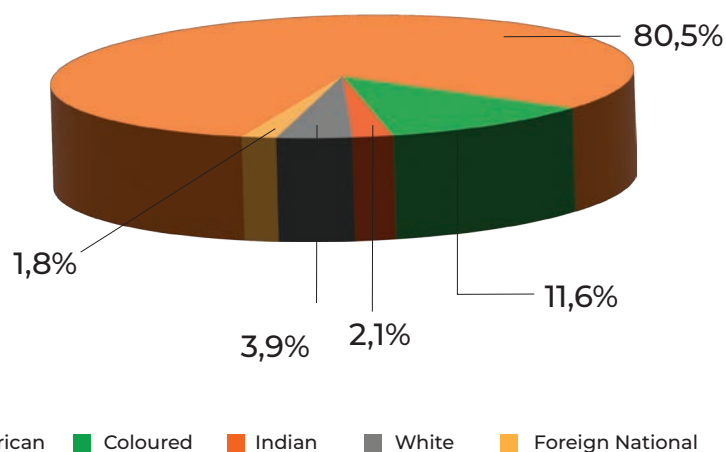

Figure 25 shows that the representation of Africans is approximately at their EAP and the representation of Coloureds is above their EAP at the Semi-skilled level. The White and Indian representation is far below their EAP at this occupational level. The high representation of Foreign Nationals (1.8%) at this occupational level still remains a concern to the CEE.

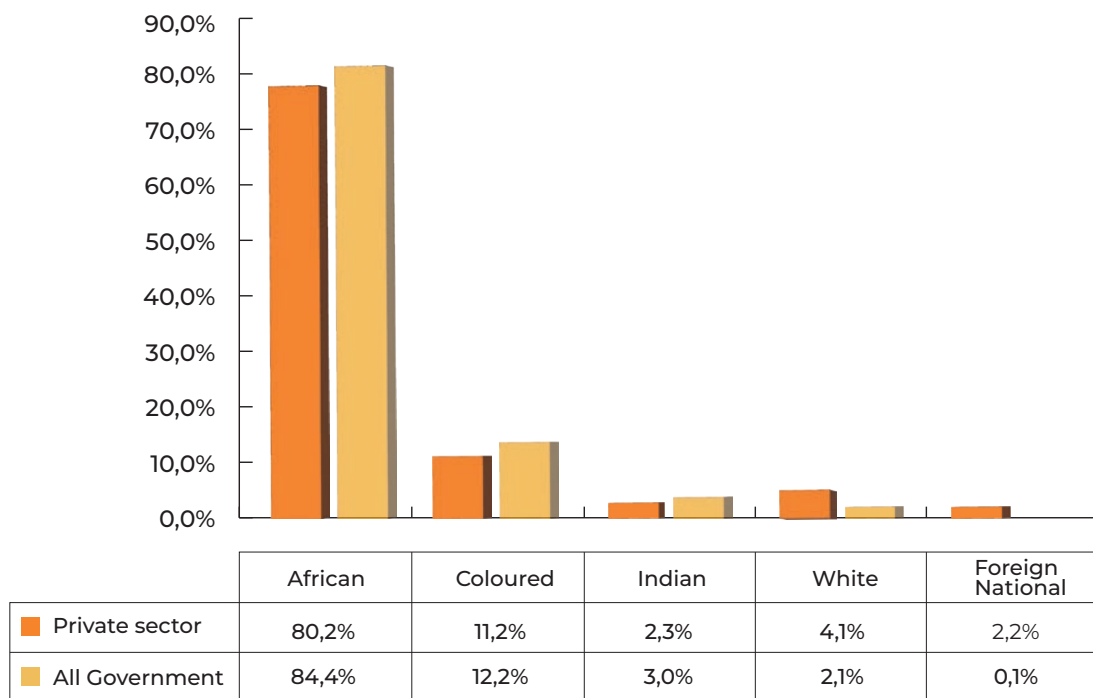

Figure 28 shows that the representation of Indian population group is below their EAP in the Private Sector and the representation of the White population group is below their EAP in both Government and the Private Sector in this occupational level. The high representation of Foreign Nationals (2.2%) in the Private Sector at this occupational level remains a worrying factor considering the high unemployment rate in South Africa.

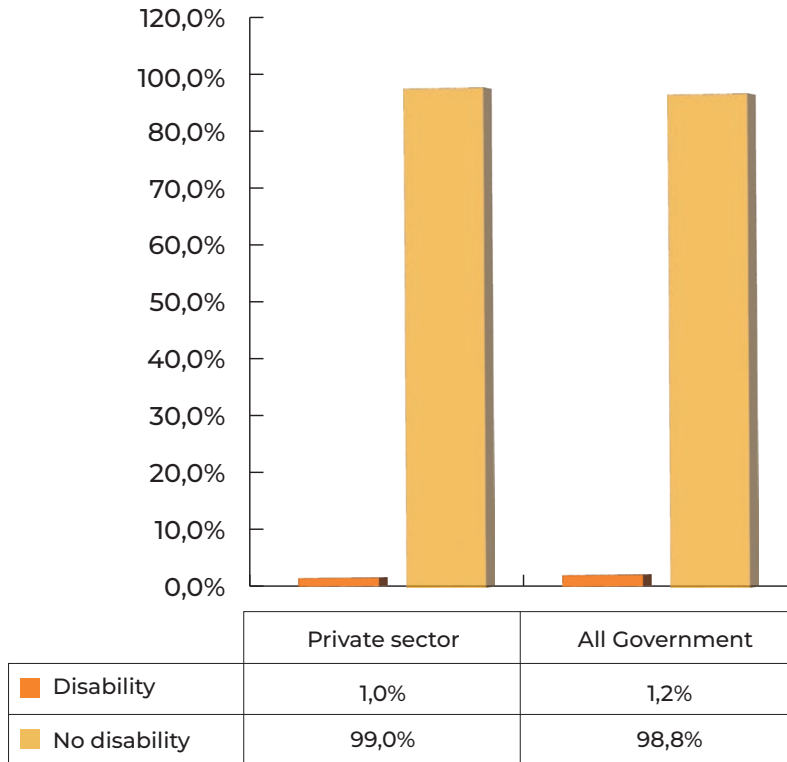

Figure 30 shows that the Government slightly outperforms the Private Sector in terms of the employment of employees with disabilities at the Semi-skilled level.

Table 19 illustrates that the representation of the African and Coloured population groups is either close to or above their EAP across most sectors at the Semi-skilled level. However, the Indian and White population groups are below their EAP in most sectors at this occupational level. The high representation of Foreign Nationals in the Mining and Quarrying sector (9.7%) and Agriculture, forestry and fishing sector (4.5%) with low skill requirements is a worrying factor at this occupational level.

Figure 31 shows that Indians and Whites are the only population groups that are below their EAP at the Unskilled level. Considering the high unemployment rate in South Africa, it is crucial that the representation of Foreign Nationals (3.1%) should be monitored and managed at this occupational level.

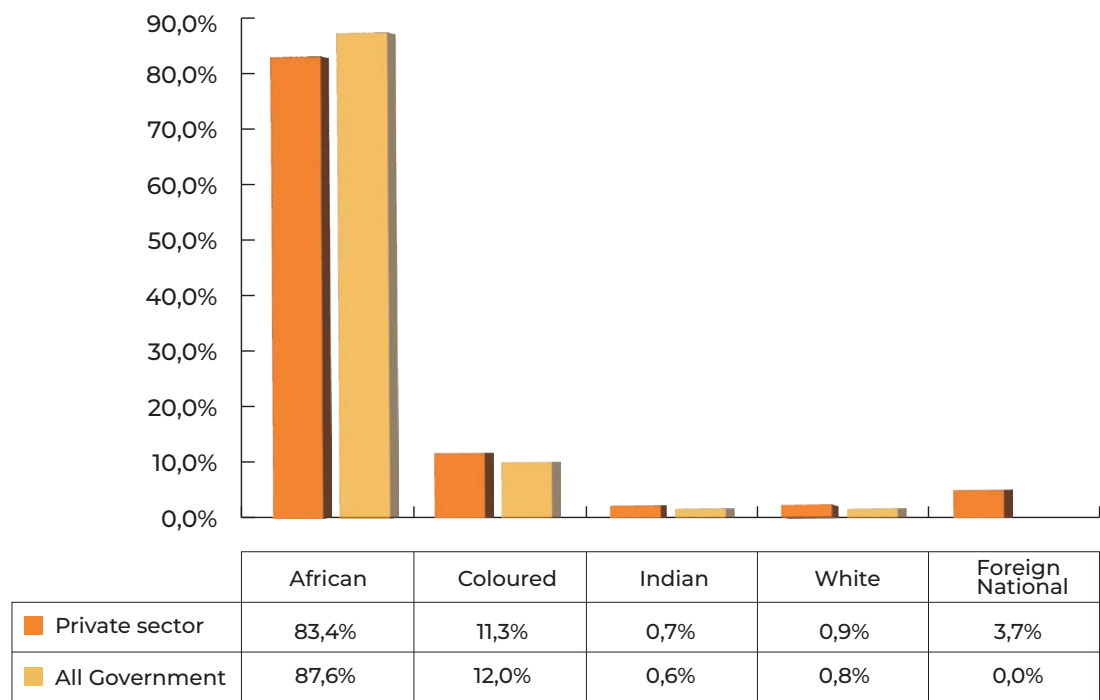

Figure 34 shows that the representation of Africans and Coloureds are the only two population groups that are above their EAP in both Government and in the Private Sector at the Unskilled level. The high representation of Foreign Nationals (3.7%) in the Private Sector at this occupational level remains a concern to the CEE.

Table 22 illustrates that the representation of African and Coloured population groups is either close to or above their EAP across most sectors at the Unskilled level. However, the Indian and White population groups are below their EAP in most sectors at this occupational level. The high representation of Foreign Nationals in the Mining and Quarrying sector and Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing services with low skill requirements is a worrying factor at this occupational level.

Table 26 suggests that the Private Sector (1.3%) is performing slightly better than Government (1.2%) in relation to the employment of employees with disabilities in 2024.

9. DISABILITY PER SECTOR

This section provides an analysis of the representation of employees with disabilities as reported in the 2024 EE reporting cycle by economic sector.

Table 27.1: Representation of employees with Disabilities by Sector
SECTORS	Disability %
Electricity, gas, steam and air conditioning supply	2.1%
Information and communication	1.9%
Public administration and defence; compulsory social security	1.9%
Professional, Scientific and technical activities	1.7%
Manufacturing	1.7%
Transportation and storage	1.6%
Administrative and support services	1.6%
Financial and insurance activities	1.6%
Real estate activities	1.3%

Table 27.1 shows the nine (9) economic sectors with highest representation of persons with disabilities in the total workforce. It also shows that of the eighteen (18) sectors, Electricity, gas, steam and air conditioning supply (2.1%); Information and communication and Public administration and defence (1.9%) and the Professional, scientific and technical activities (1.7%) were the most progressive sectors in the representation of persons with disabilities as a percentage of the total workforce in these sectors.

Table 27.2: Representation of employees with Disabilities by Sector

Construction	1.0%
Agriculture, forestry & fishing	0.8%
Accommodation and food service activities	0.7%
Arts, Entertainment and Recreation	0.4%

Table 27.2 shows the nine (9) least performing sectors in terms of the representation of persons with disabilities in the total workforce. It also shows that of the eighteen (18) sectors, Arts, Entertainment and Recreation (0.4%), Accommodation and food services (0.7%) and Agriculture, forestry & fishing (0.8%) were the least performing in the representation of persons with disabilities as a percentage of the total workforce in these sectors.

10. BARRIER AND AFFIRMATIVE ACTION FOR 2024 (ALL EMPLOYERS)

This section of the report provides an analysis of the barriers and affirmative action measures when commencing employment, during employment and when terminating employment submitted by the designated employers in their 2024 employment equity reports as outlined below:

	5.2%	94.8%	100.0%	4.5%	95.5%	100.0%

Table 28.1 indicates that a large proportion of employers did not have barriers in the following categories: terms and conditions of employment (94.8%); job classification and grading (89.1%); remuneration and benefits (84.7%); selection criteria (81.8%), advertising of positions (78.8%); and appointments (77.7%). This implies that most employers did not face challenges in attracting and employing people from the designated groups, which means a change in the representation of the designated groups in the upper occupational levels of the workforce should take place at a faster pace moving forward.

Table 28.2 shows that most employers indicated that they have insignificant barriers in terms of transfers; job assignments; and promotions. As a result, there should be no excuse for not distributing employment opportunities in favour of the designated groups at the upper echelons of the workforce.

Table 28.3 highlights that a large number of designated employers have insignificant barriers regarding: Dismissal (98.1%); Disciplinary measures (95.5%); and Assigned Senior Manager to manage EE implementation (94.2%). It is therefore safe to assume that sufficient strategies have not been adopted and implemented to increase the representation of the designated groups, particularly persons with disabilities, across the various sectors of the economy.

11. CONCLUDING OBSERVATIONS AND REMARKS

As we consolidate 31 years of democracy and over 26 years since the inception of the Employment Equity Act of 1998 (EEA), it is imperative that we pause and reflect on the factual information that employers have been submitting to the Department of Employment and Labour for the transformation of South African workplaces.

Lack of equitable representation at the Top Management level does not bode well for the future sustainable economic growth of the country as we continue not to be inclusive and representative of the demographic population distribution in the workplace in terms of population groups, gender and disability.

The representation at the Senior Management level still remains appalling for the Africans, with the White and Indian Population representation still remaining significantly higher than their EAP, whilst the representation of females is lower than their EAP at this level. Moving forward, radical measures must be taken to capitalise on the opportunities in the workplace by developing, recruiting and promoting persons from the designated groups.

At the Professionally Qualified level, Africans are the only population group that is below their EAP at this level. The representation of females is greater than their EAP, which proves that there is critical mass of suitably qualified females at this level, which employers can delve into to recruit and promote females to the upper management levels. The talent pool at this level testifies against the Top Management statistics, showing insufficient commitment to transform at the highest level.

Similarly, the picture at the Skilled technical level mirrors the representation at the Professionally Qualified level in terms of population distribution and gender. At the Skilled technical level, the Africans remain the only population group that is below their EAP. The same applies to the representation of females who are above their EAP at this level and again, this demonstrates that we have a pool of suitably qualified females that are readily available to ascend to the upper echelons of the workforce.

At the two lower levels, i.e. at the Semi-Skilled and Unskilled levels, the representation of the White and Indian Population group is below their EAP. Of relevance and concern to the CEE, is that the representation of females is lower than their EAP in these two occupational levels. The low representation of females at the entry level jobs, highlights the plight of females in accessing equal employment opportunities, even at the lowest occupational levels of the workforce.

The representation of persons with disabilities still hovers around 1% of the total workforce and their representation remains low at all six occupational levels. There seems to be subtle resistance across various economic sectors to create conducive working environments that are accommodative to the employment of suitably qualified persons with disabilities.

It has been observed through the analysis of EE data in this report that there is a high representation of Foreign Nationals at every occupational level, which should be a concern to everybody across all economic sectors in the country. Direct foreign investment may play a role and at times influence the employment of Foreign Nationals at the upper occupational levels, which may be influenced by the holding company that is normally based overseas. The question then still remains, why the high representation of Foreign Nationals even at occupational levels where skills are available locally?

It is a known fact that South Africa's migration laws and national policies are free from unfair discrimination and meets the requirements of international standards. The answer lies in whether we are implementing them sufficiently or not in order to counter the discomfort of communities whose members are unemployed and are bound to sit and see Foreign Nationals employed in their area, even in unskilled jobs. The CEE is very clear that nobody should be unfairly discriminated against, whether a person is a National or Foreign National, but beneficiaries of affirmative action remain local citizens from the designated groups.

In light of the above observations, in order to reach equity at the Top Management and all other occupational levels, the CEE believes that multi-pronged strategies should either be strengthened or developed at the sectoral and workplace level. Therefore, the CEE is optimistic that the implementation of the EE Amendment Act and its accompanying EE Regulations will contribute positively as policy tools to address and narrow the racial and gender gaps in order to ensure and create workplaces that are inclusive, diversified and free from unfair discrimination.
